

Social Service in the Treatment of Substances Attached Psychoactive: An Experience Report

Abstract

The present paper an objective account of a lived experience through the implementation of social service in the Therapeutic Community Antonio Pio da Silva “Center for Treatment of Alcohol and Drug Addiction.” The study describes the work of professional social work, aiming at the effectuation of protagonism of psychoactive substances users and highlight that drug addiction is a biopsychosocial disease not only causes damage to the addict only but the entire family and social network to which this belongs to. The case study reported here allowed us to recognize the effectiveness of treatment, with the active participation of professional social work.

Keywords: Addictio., social service. Community Therapy.